CONCEPT NOTE

Human Rights seek to secure the welfare and well-being of all persons with equal treatment everywhere at all times.. However, the socio-economic, political and cultural diversities, prevailing in each state across the world, and politics of the nation states, deprive the free exercise of human rights to a certain number of people. Such deprived people are normally referred to as vulnerable, marginal and disadvantaged communities or groups. These groups are broadly classified as women, refugees, disabled, internally displaced persons, HIV/AIDS victims, Migrant workers, minorities, mentally ill persons, trafficked persons, and sexual minorities etc. This Seminar is an endeavor to throw light on the global and national initiatives taken to make accessible the guaranteed human rights to the marginalized sections and to analyze their efficacy, expediency with an ultimate aim to suggest measures to strengthen the human rights regime to address the contemporary concerns and challenges in this regard.

Moot Problem

Indistan is a Sovereign, Socialist, Secular and Democratic Republic governed by the written Constitution. The Constitution in its Preamble promises equality of status and opportunity to its citizens and further admits Right to Equality a status of Fundamental Right. The Constitution also grants permission to the State to make special provisions for certain weaker sections of the society viz. includes Socially and Educationally backward classes. The Supreme Court of Indistan in exercise of its authority to interpret Constitutional provisions laid down that the upper limit of this reservation is 50% and State is not entitled to make provisions for any reservations beyond this limit. Recently, Parliament of Indistan passed a Constitutional (103rd Amendment) Act, 2019 thereby providing 10% reservations to economically weaker sections of the general classes of people, who were not covered under the earlier scheme of reservation. The petition therefore is filed by the NG) called 'Equality for All' before the Supreme Court of Indistan challenging the Constitutional validity of the said Amendment.
