POST GRADUATE TEACHING DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH,
GONDWANA UNIVERSITY, GADCHIROLI

Respected Sir/Madam,

It is a moment of pleasure for all of us to invite you to take part in the Five days Capacity Building workshop on “Retrospect and Prospects on Syllabi-Framing for the Program-Masters in English.” The workshop aims at getting a comprehensive outfit covering major aspects of English language and literature so that the students would have a wider exposure to the trends and developments in the field. As we see increasing competition in job opportunities as well, making the students employment-worthy through a comprehensive syllabus, is the need of the time and a great challenge. This workshop welcomes your valuable ideas in designing the four semesters’ elective and compulsory-cum- foundation courses which will not only educate the students but also communicate them certain skills. We, therefore, request you to send your suggestions to pgtdenglishgug@gmail.com to help us in designing the syllabi. Your involvement in the vision, framing and execution of the content is highly solicited. The speakers of the session will guide the participants about the principals, trends and modalities in the framing of the syllabi.

Facilities for the presentation on your inputs will also be arranged in case needed. We hope that your suggestions, recommendations received in this workshop, will pave the way for unprecedented direction to the master’s program in English.

About PGTD of English at Gondwana University:

Gondwana University Gadchiroli, established on 27th September 2011 by the Government of Maharashtra for the districts of Chandrapur and Gadchiroli. As these districts have certain under-privileged sections of the mainstream society, it has been the obligation of every institution in the vicinity to impart quality education and output-oriented training while addressing the upliftment and employment-related anxieties of these sections of the society. PGTD of English is committed to share this responsibility through its various initiatives from time to time right from its start in 2012. The department has carried out initiatives such as PPT and Poster making competition for students and teachers in affiliated institutions, workshops on curricula structure and collaboration in the CPD projects sponsored by Hornby trust, UK.

Objectives of the workshop:

- To bring into practice certain fundamental areas in English language and literature through introduction of few foundation courses.
- To prescribe few more electives and compulsory courses to the students covering all domains of language and literature
- To ponder over complete goal and outcome-based curriculum.
