Organizing Institutions

Chintamani College of Science, Pombhurna

Chintamani College of Science is a student-centric institution. All the curricular and extracurricular activities undertaken at the college always aim to inspire the students to excel in academics and other areas of specialization. The most commendable and remarkable feature is that the college works unitedly as an enthusiastic team of students and faculty members who are focused to strive for the betterment of the institution.

We believe in incremental growth to heighten the educational standard of the students and their status as the citizens of our country.

About AMTGU

Association of Microbiology Teachers Gondwana University (AMTGU) was established in February 2021 and registered in July 2022 in Chandrapur, Maharashtra (R.N. Chandrapur/0000064/2022). all the faculty of Microbiology affiliated to the Gondwana University are the members of the society.

The Society's role is to help unlock and harness the potential of Microbiology knowledge. We do this by bringing together and empowering students, faculty and communities that shape the future of microbiology. We generate public benefit by fostering communication both among communities of microbiologists and between microbiologists and other communities who can translate that knowledge in useful ways. We believe in a world in which the science of microbiology provides maximum benefit to society.
