Up the River Hudson in North America are the catskill mountains. In a certain village at the foot of these mountains, there lived long ago a man named Rip Van Winkle. He was a simple and good. Natured person, a very kind neighbour and a great Favourite among all the good wives of the village whenever there was a squabble in the family of Rip, the woman in the village always took his part and laid all the blame on Dame Van Winkle.

The children of the village too would shout with joy. Whenever they saw him. He helped at their sports. Made playthings for them, taught them to fly kites and shoot marbles and told them long stories of ghosts and Indians.

Rip had no love for labour. If it would bring him profit. He would sit for a whole day on a wet rock and fish without a murmur, even though he did not catch a single fish. He would carry a light gun on his shoulder for hours together and shoot only a few squirrels or wild pigeons.

Questions.

- i) What was Rip Van Winkle like?
 - ii) Whom did the woman in the village blame when there was a quarrel in the family of Rip?
 - iii) How did Rip help the children of the village?
 - iv) What kind of work did he dislike?
- b) 'List five different types of advertisement.
